CLASSIC PAPERBACKS ON MODERN ART AND ARCHITECTURE

From Da Capo Press

EARLY AMERICAN MODERNIST PAINTING 1910-1935
by Abraham A. Davidson

"All in all, a solid history that is likely to become a standard work on its subject."
—Hilton Kramer, New York Times Book Review

"Here, at last, is a comprehensive but compact overview that summarizes and puts into perspective a fascinating, complex period in American painting."
—Art in America

$19.95

THE MODERN LANGUAGE OF ARCHITECTURE
by Bruno Zevi

"This intelligent work of historical analysis goes a long way toward putting the dialogue between art and criticism on a systematic basis. . . . It will be regarded as a seminal treatment of its topic for years to come."
—San Francisco Review of Books

$16.95

THE TRADITION OF THE NEW
by Harold Rosenberg

"[Rosenberg has] a brave, original, and utterly independent critical mind. [He is] a critic in the best tradition, for he reminds us how passionate a force intelligence can be."
—Alfred Kazin

This book, his first and most influential, contains Rosenberg's seminal writings on artists such as Pollock, Kline, de Kooning, Newman, and Rothko. As wide-ranging and deeply probing as the essays of Walter Benjamin, The Tradition of the New is a true classic of twentieth-century criticism.

The Andy Warhol Museum
Essays by Arthur C. Danto, Mark Francis, Helen Searing, et al.
(The Andy Warhol Museum/D.A.P.)

In conjunction with the festival-like opening of the Andy Warhol Museum in the artist's native Pittsburgh, the Museum has published this book celebrating the museum and the artist it represents. In a fitting nod to a man who blended the distinction between life and art, the book cover features an imbedded compact disk incorporated into the cover art with recordings of candid conversations between Warhol and his friends. Seven prominent art critics explore Warhol's reinvention of what we perceive as art and the reactions, from adulation to anger, his work has provoked. The essays are complimented by 70 color plates, more than 200 black and white illustrations, and an illustrated chronology of Warhol's life. The book also covers the renovation and expansion of the 1911 Beaux arts building that now houses the museum and discusses the unique considerations of a single-artist museum devoted to this century's most iconoclastic artist.

Making It New: Essays, Interviews, and Talks
by Henry Geldzahler (Turtle Point Press/D.A.P.)

COMBINED SALE $42

Exceptional art critics can imbue familiar art with new passion, depth, or appeal. In Embodied Meanings, Arthur C. Danto, art critic for The Nation, explores the work of today's artists, including Jenny Holzer, Tim Rollins + K.O.S., and Martin Puryear, and provides insights into the work of masters such as Van Dyck, Titian and Picasso. Danto writes on the notion of quality, the relationship of the museum to the community, and the difference between art and aesthetics. Henry Geldzahler's passionate involvement with art has made him one of the most refreshing and important critics, collectors, and curators of this century. Making It New is the first compendium of his writings. INTERVIEW editor-in-chief Ingrid Sischy called this book "a thirty-year chronicle of the art scene by an observer with an insider perspective that is 'inside' in the most visceral sense of the word."

Julio Galán: Retrospective Exhibition
Essays by Fernando Treviño Lozano Jr., Sergio Pitol, Eleanor Heartney, Jurrie Poot, Jerry Saltz, and Jaime Moreno Villarreal
(Museo de Arte Contemporaneo de Monterrey, A.C.)

This book is published in conjunction with a retrospective exhibition of the work of Julio Galán from 1982-1993 organized by the Museo de Arte Contemporáneo de Monterrey in Mexico and currently appearing at the Center for the Fine Arts in Miami. Galán's intensely autobiographical paintings question traditional Mexican culture, social mores, and conventions of gender and sexuality. His style is uniquely conglomerate, incorporating both high and low sources including Surrealist paintings, the cinema, Mexican retablo imagery, Catholic iconography, native Indian culture, and Galan's own image. Galán himself has noted that his oeuvre is "covered with a veil of disguise"; this book explores the elusive world behind the facade of Julio Galán's haunting paintings.

Visions of America: Landscape as Metaphor in the Late Twentieth Century
Essays by John Beardsley, Martin Friedman, Michael Tarantino, Adam Weinberg, John Yau, et al.
(The Denver Art Museum and the Columbus Museum of Art/Abrams)

Landscape painting has undergone radical modification since the idyllic landscapes of the nineteenth century. For today's artists, "landscape" has come to include all aspects of nature, visible and symbolic; this new view of landscape as a phenomenon beyond the purely descriptive is the premise for this book and the exhibition it documents. Organized by Martin Friedman, director emeritus of the Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, the exhibition features large-scale commissioned works by thirteen American artists, among them Judy Pfaff, Mark Tansey, James Turrell, Martin Puryear, and Meg Webster. The exhibition explores why landscape, so persistent a theme in art history, has taken on new urgency for contemporary American artists. The artists take landscape as a point of departure to explore the implications of this theme. In this book, the authors examine landscape painting from a cultural, historical, environmental, social, and aesthetic point of view.

Race, Sex, and Gender: Issues in Contemporary Art
By Edward Lucie-Smith (Abrams)

COMBINED SALE $83

Published in conjunction with the Bad Girls I and II and Bad Girls West exhibits, the Bad Girls catalog reflects the exhibits' interdisciplinary approach in a timely and humorous reexamination of feminist and gender issues. Charles Ray's sculptures are an exaggeration of the "real" that demonstrate the ridiculousness of our cultural expectations. This book, the first comprehensive work on Ray, has full-color plates from the exhibition at the Rooseum Museum in Sweden. In Race, Sex & Gender, art historian Edward Lucie-Smith probes issues of racial identity, sexual orientation, and gender politics in the works of Basquiat, Mapplethorpe, Puryear and numerous other artists.

Christian Boltanski
by Lynn Gumpert
(Flammarion)

Christian Boltanski, one of France's best-known artists of the postwar generation, has developed a disconcerting, elusive oeuvre that addresses some of the most disturbing problems of twentieth-century life. Boltanski's art is at once merry and morbid, truthful and deceptive, self-revealing and self-obscuring. The real or constructed details from Boltanski's own life are willfully contradictory, suggesting that the Christian Boltanski we know is an artful construct that demonstrates our own illusions about ourselves. In a beautifully written and erudite essay, art historian Lynn Gumpert analyzes the haunting works of Boltanski over the span of his production, materials, and influences. This insightful monograph, the first to be published in English, also contains interviews with Boltanski and color reproductions of his most important works.

Willem de Kooning: Paintings
by Marla Prather, Richard Shiff, and David Sylvester
(Yale University Press)

Willem de Kooning once remarked, "art never seemed to make me peaceful or pure." De Kooning's paintings, charged with emotional energy, are the subject of this retrospective book on one of America's greatest and most influential artists. The book covers the full spectrum of de Kooning's paintings, from his early portraits, 40s abstractions, woman series, and landscape abstractions to his later calligraphic work, and examines his evocative painting techniques. Published in conjunction with a major exhibition at the National Gallery of Art which coincides with the artist's 90th birthday, this fully illustrated catalog situates de Kooning's art in the context of the work of his forebears and contemporaries. The exhibition will also appear at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and later at the Tate Gallery.

Regular Price $21.95 SALE $20
Joseph Stella's Symbolism
by Irma B. Jaffe (Pomegranate Press)

COMBINED SALE $71

Stella, considered America's most important Futurist, was one of the first artists to fuse the styles of the European vanguard with 20th-century American subjects. His paintings and works on paper are the subject of a major retrospective exhibition at the Whitney Museum. Stella's modernist depictions of the urban landscape of New York City, dominated by skyscrapers, machines, and bridges, are secular icons of the industrial world. The success of these earlier works has, until now, overshadowed Stella's later years, in which Stella turned from abstraction and urban subjects to paint symbolic landscapes, still lifes and religious images. Joseph Stella, the exhibition catalogue, highlights these later works as well as his better-known earlier Futurist work to reflect Stella's singularity and success as an artist. Joseph Stella's Symbolism focuses on the enigmatic symbols and complex iconography of many of his works and shows how Stella saturated his work with a personal significance both sensual and spiritual.

Bruce Nauman
Essays by Neal Benezra, Kathy Halbreich, Paul Schimmel and Robert Storr
(Walker Art Center)

This catalogue raisonné accompanies the Walker Art Center's retrospective exhibition of the work of Bruce Nauman, compiled and edited by Nauman scholar and former Art in America editor Joan Simon. This volume is a comprehensive overview of the work of the most experimental and challenging American artist to have worked during the past 30 years. Nauman's wide-ranging exploration of media delves into conceptual issues while examining the very premises of art-making itself. He probes the complexities of language, philosophy, psychology and the human body as he investigates the parameters of art. This beautifully illustrated catalogue documents more than 500 of Nauman's works, including sculpture, film and video, hologram, neon sculpture, large scale mixed media installations, photographs and drawings. In-depth essays provide historical and thematic discussions while offering a critical introduction to his aesthetic concerns.

Raymond Saunders: Recent Work

Paintings, assemblages and drawings made over the last three years comprise this exhibition by Bay Area artist Raymond Saunders, whose work is characterized by the juxtaposition of personal and cultural motifs in a bold, abstract style. The 45 pieces in the show were selected by Philip E. Linhares, chief curator of art at the Oakland Museum, where it appears June 11-Aug. 21, 1994.

Jim Nutt

The first major survey of the leading Chicago Imagist painter features about 100 works, ranging from cartoon-inspired paintings on Plexiglas of 1966-70 to recent imaginary portraits. The show is curated by Russell Bowman, director of the Milwaukee Art Museum, where it premieres June 17-Aug. 28, 1994. Subsequent itinerary: Henry Art Gallery, Seattle, Sept. 14-Nov. 20, 1994; National Museum of American Art, Feb. 10-May 21, 1995; Cincinnati Contemporary Arts Center, June 25-August 1995 (exact closing date to be announced).

Lotte Jacobi: Old and New Worlds

One of Weimar Germany's leading portraitists, Lotte Jacobi (1896-1990) fled Hitler's Germany in 1935 to establish a studio first in New York and then in Deering, N.H. This 100-print exhibition features portraits and the cameraless abstractions, called "photogenics," which she began making in the 1950s. The bulk of the show comes from the collection of the Tokyo Fuji Art Museum, which owns about 400 works from the artist's estate. Organized by independent curator Anne Hoy, the show appears at the International Center of Photography, June 24-Sept. 16, 1994.

The Sublime Is Now: The Early Work of Barnett Newman

This exhibition focuses on Newman's art during 1944-49, the formative years of Abstract Expressionism. The unusual museum-gallery collaboration, organized by Saint Louis Art Museum curator Jeremy Strick, premiered this spring at the Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, Mar. 20-May 29, before traveling to the Saint Louis Art Museum, June 30-Aug. 28, 1994, and Pace-Wildenstein, New York, Oct. 21-Nov. 26, 1994.

Odilon Redon: A Retrospective

The first major survey of the Symbolist artist has almost 200 works, including paintings, pastels, charcoal drawings, etchings, lithographs, tapestry designs and decorative panels. The show is co-organized by Douglas Druick, curator of European paintings at the Art Institute of Chicago; Fred Leeman, chief curator of the Van Gogh Museum, Amsterdam; and Maryanne Stevens, librarian and head of education at the Royal Academy, London. After opening at the Art Institute, July 2-Sept. 18, 1994, the show appears at the Van Gogh Museum, Oct. 20, 1994-Jan. 15, 1995, and the Royal Academy, Feb. 22-May 21, 1995.

Pacific Dreams: Currents of Surrealism and Fantasy in California Art

The unfolding of the surrealist impulse in California art during 1934-54 is traced through approximately 90 works in a variety of media. Artists include Eugene Berman, Ruth Bernhard, Claire Falkenstein, Philip Guston, Helen Lundeberg and Man Ray. Guest-curated by University of Southern California art historian Susan Ehrlich, the show premieres at the newly merged UCLA/Armand Hammer Museum of Art and Cultural Center, July 5-Aug. 27, and travels to the Oakland Museum, Feb. 25-June 11, 1995.

Goya: Truth and Fantasy, the Small Paintings

In a demonstration of the artist's unusually wide range, this show presents 75 works—preliminary studies for altarpieces and frescoes, designs for royal tapestries, miniature portraits of the artist's family and melodramatic scenes of witchcraft, bullfighting, shipwreck and guerrilla warfare. The exhibition was curated by Juliet Wilson-Bareaux and Manuela Mena Marqués, and organized by the Museo Nacional del Prado, Madrid, where it appeared Nov. 18, 1993-Feb. 27, 1994, and the Royal Academy, London, where it was on view Mar. 17-June 12. It makes its only U.S. stop at the Art Institute of Chicago, July 16-Oct. 16, 1994.

First Artist of the American West: Paintings and Watercolors by George Catlin

Beginning in 1830, Catlin made a series of six expeditions west of the Mississippi to record the customs of Native Americans. Joan Troccoli, director of the Gilcrease Museum in Tulsa, selected 35 paintings and 25 watercolors for this show, which is circulated by the American Federation of Arts. Itinerary: Museum of the Southwest, Midland, Tex., Sept. 2-Nov. 6, 1994; Weisman Museum, Pepperdine University, Malibu, Calif., Jan. 6-Mar. 4, 1995; Joslyn Art Museum, Omaha, Apr. 1-May 28, 1995; Hood Museum, Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H., Sept. 23-Nov. 26, 1995; and four additional venues.

Gauguin and the School of Pont-Aven

This show features approximately 80 paintings and 25 works on paper by Gauguin, Emile Bernard and others associated with the village of Pont-Aven in Brittany, long a popular artist's colony. After touring in Australia and Japan, the exhibition has its U.S. premiere at the Indianapolis Museum, Sept. 4-Oct. 23, 1994. Subsequent itinerary: Walters Art Gallery, Baltimore, Nov. 19, 1994-Jan. 15, 1995; Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, Feb. 11-Apr. 8, 1995; Dixon Gallery and Gardens, Memphis, May 6-July 2, 1995; San Diego Museum of Art, July 29-Sept. 24, 1995.

Arnold Mesches: Paintings 1982-1994

Large-scale paintings from the artist's "Anomie" series use montages of images from public and private events to raise issues of social ethics. A group of smaller photo-collage studies will also be presented in this exhibition, curated by Judith Tannenbaum, associate director of Philadelphia's Institute of Contemporary Art. The show opens at the ICA, Sept. 9-Oct. 30, 1994, and appears at the Harn Museum of Art, Gainesville, Fla., Mar. 19-May 14, 1995.

Franz Kline: Black and White, 1950-1961

This exhibition focuses exclusively on Kline's black-and-white works. Organized by independent curator David Whitney in conjunction with the Menil Collection, Houston, the show includes approximately 25 paintings and 12 works on paper. It opens at the Menil, Sept. 9-Nov. 27, and travels to the Whitney Museum, Dec. 16, 1994-Mar. 12, 1995, and the Chicago Museum of Contemporary Art, Mar. 25-June 4, 1995.

House Rules

How do issues of race, class, gender, ethnicity and identity affect both architectural theory and the actual production of domestic space? The question is addressed by 10 teams of architects and social critics in this exhibition, which will propose alternatives to the single-family home in response to today's changing demographics. The project pairs Oberlin professor and critic bell hooks with Koning Eizenberg Architecture, artist and writer Silvia Kolbowski with Smith-Miller & Hawkinson Architects, and Columbia University art historian Jonathan Crary with architect Joel Sanders. The exhibition also features works by Dan Graham, Allan Wexler, Kate Ericson/Mel Zeigler and other artists. It is organized by Mark Robbins, curator of architecture at the Wexner Center, Columbus, where it appears Sept. 10-Dec. 11, 1994.

Sol LeWitt: Drawings 1958-1992

This retrospective presents approximately 250 drawings and watercolors dating from the late 1950s to the present. Organized by Franz W. Kaiser for the Haags Gemeentemuseum in the Netherlands, the exhibition has been traveling in Europe since 1992. It premieres in the U.S. at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Sept. 10-Nov. 20, 1994, and subsequently appears at the Baltimore Museum, Feb. 12-Apr. 23, 1995.

George Inness: Presence of the Unseen

This centennial commemoration of the "Father of American Landscape" includes 18 paintings, two watercolors, five sketches and one etching, along with the artist's brushes, paints and palette. Organized by Gail Stavitsky, curator of the Montclair Art Museum in New Jersey, the show debuts in Montclair, Sept. 11-Nov. 6, 1994. Subsequent itinerary: Parrish Art Museum, Southampton, Nov. 20, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995; Mount Holyoke College Art Museum, South Hadley, Mass., Feb. 3-Mar. 17, 1995; Hudson River Museum, Yonkers, N.Y., June 1995, exact dates to be announced.

Ferdinand Hodler

The first comprehensive survey in North America of the works of Ferdinand Hodler (1853-1918) is composed of 55 paintings gathered from 26 major Swiss public and private collections. Organized by the Swiss Insitute for Art Research, Zurich, and the Trust for Museum Exhibitions, Washington, D.C., the show debuts at the Cincinnati Art Museum, Sept. 11-Oct. 31, 1994. Subsequent itinerary: National Academy of Design, Nov. 18, 1994-Jan. 20, 1995; Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, Feb. 15-Apr. 15, 1995; Wadsworth Atheneum, Hartford, Conn., May 8-July 8, 1995.

Madame Grès

The pioneering 20th-century fashion designer Madame Grès has been known since the 1930s for draped and pleated evening gowns suggestive of ancient Greece. The exhibition is organized by Metropolitan Museum curators Richard Martin and Harold Koda, and appears at the Met's Costume Institute, Sept. 13-Nov. 27, 1994.

Get to Work! Good Offices and Beyond

Modern office equipment from the 1970s and '80s, along with the "material artifacts that fill the landscape of the desk," are the subject of this exhibition. Curated by David McFadden and Deborah Stinn, the show is based on office designs assembled by the Arango Design Foundation. It appears at the Cooper-Hewitt, New York, Sept. 13, 1994-Feb. 19, 1995.

Japanese Art after 1945: Scream Against the Sky

The San Francisco MOMA

The $60-million, 200,000-square-foot San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, designed by Mario Botta, opens to the public Jan. 31, 1995, with six inaugural exhibitions. Featured are two photo shows: "Public Information: Disaster, Desire, Document," a survey of the role of photography in contemporary art over the past 30 years [to Apr. 30]; and "William Klein's New York," approximately 150 photographs made since the '50s [to Apr. 2]. Also presented are three exhibitions highlighting the museum's permanent collection and a survey of Botta's designs for the facility.

Temporary Contemporary, MOCA, Los Angeles

Closed in mid-1992 to make way for a city construction project (that was never started), the Temporary Contemporary facility of the Los Angeles Museum of Contemporary Art reopens on May 7, 1995, with "1965-1975: Reconsidering the Object of Art" [to Aug. 20], an international Conceptual-art survey. Works by approximately 50 artists are selected by MOCA curators Ann Goldstein and Anne Rorimer. Tour plans are to be announced.

Wing for Modern Art, Baltimore Museum of Art

The Baltimore Museum unveils its new $8.9-million, 36,000-square-foot wing for modern art on Oct. 16, 1994. Designed by the Philadelphia architectural firm Bower Lewis Thrower, the addition will house the museum's renowned Cone Collection of works by Matisse, Picasso, van Gogh and Cézanne as well as 18 new Warhol works the museum recently purchased from the Warhol Foundation.

Twombly Pavilion, Menil Collection, Houston

The Menil Collection unveils its new Twombly Pavilion in conjunction with the Museum of Modern Art's Twombly retrospective, which appears there Feb. 10-May 19, 1995. Designed by Renzo Piano, the 9,000-square-foot building will hold about 25 Twombly works dating from 1959 to the present.

Joslyn Art Museum, Omaha

The Joslyn Art Museum opens its new $16-million, 58,000-square-foot wing on Nov. 19, 1994, with "Contemporary Navaho Weaving: The Gloria F. Ross Collection of the Denver Art Museum" [to Jan. 15, 1995]. Also on view is "Birth of a Building," a show chronicling the museum's design by London architect Norman Foster [to Jan. 29, 1995].

Kemper Museum of Contemporary Art and Design, Kansas City

The Kansas City Art Institute's new Kemper Museum of Contemporary Art and Design premieres Oct. 2, 1994. Opening exhibitions at the $6.5-million, 23,200-square-foot facility include selections from the collection donated to the museum by Mary and Crosby Kemper and a show of Gunnar Birkerts's architectural drawings for the building [both to June 30, 1995].

The California Center for the Arts Museum, Escondido

The new California Center for the Arts Museum in Escondido, Calif., inaugurates its approximately 9,000-square-feet of gallery space with "Wildlife," featuring works by Deborah Butterfield, Komar & Melamid, Meyer Vaisman and William Wegman, among others, Oct. 1-Dec. 31, 1994. The show will be augmented on Nov. 19 by a special installation by Alexis Rockman. The museum is part of a $74-million, 200,000-square-foot arts complex on a 12-acre site that also includes a concert hall, a theater, a conference center, gardens and park grounds.

pendent curator Alexandra Munroe in association with the Japan Foundation, Tokyo, and InterCultura, Fort Worth. After opening at the Yokohama Museum of Art, Feb. 5-Mar. 30, 1994, the exhibition is scheduled to come to the Guggenheim Museum SoHo, Sept. 14, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995. It subsequently splits in two and appears simultaneously at the San Francisco MOMA and the Center for the Arts at Yerba Buena Gardens, May 31-Sept. 3, 1995.

Cornell Capa: Photographer

Celebrating the 20th anniversary of the International Center of Photography, this retrospective presents 110 works by ICP founding director and Life magazine photojournalist Cornell Capa. Guest-curated by Richard Whelen, biographer of the late Robert Capa (older brother of Cornell), the show ranges from portraits of Marilyn Monroe and coverage of JFK's presidential campaign to documentation of poverty and political insurrection in Latin America. It appears at the ICP, Sept. 14-Nov. 27, 1994.

Man on Fire: Luis Jiménez

This exhibition of 41 sculptures and graphic works by the Hondo, N.M.-based artist is a smaller version of the retrospective mounted earlier this year at the Albuquerque Museum (Feb. 20-May 15, 1994, its only venue). Augmented by the National Museum of American Art's own holdings of the artist's work, the show is selected by NMAA sculpture curator George Gurney, and appears there Sept. 16, 1994-Jan. 2, 1995.

Milton Avery: Works on Paper

Celebrating the 1992 gift of the Milton Avery print archive to the National Gallery, this exhibition features trial proofs and variant impressions of Avery's drypoints, woodcuts and lithographs. The show includes 55 prints plus a group of sketchbooks, selected by Carlotta J. Owens, assistant curator at the National Gallery, its only venue, Sept. 18, 1994-Jan. 22, 1995.

The Thaw Collection: Master Drawings and New Acquisitions

The drawing collection of Eugene V. and Clare Thaw (he is a dealer and Morgan Library trustee) ranges from the Italian Renaissance and the Dutch, Flemish and German schools to Impressionism and the French moderns. Among the 125 works on view—either gifts or promised gifts to the library—are works by Mantegna, Fra Bartolommeo, Lucas Cranach the Elder, Rubens, Van Dyck, Rembrandt, Watteau, David, Ingres, Delacroix, Pissarro, Degas, Seurat, Cézanne, Gauguin and Matisse. Cara Dufour Denison, curator of drawings and prints at the Morgan Library, has organized the show, which appears there Sept. 21, 1994-Jan. 22, 1995.

Visiting Hours

This installation by Los Angeles poet and performance artist Bob Flanagan, done in collaboration with photographer Sheree Rose, explores his lifelong struggle with cystic fibrosis. The heart of the exhibition takes place in a reconstructed hospital room, where Flanagan, in bed and dressed in a hospital gown, is available to talk to museum visitors. Originally presented at the Santa Monica Museum of Art, the show appears at the New Museum, Sept. 23-Dec. 31, 1994.

Arthur Rothstein: Documentary Classics

This 100-photograph retrospective of a leading American photojournalist features his photographs of nine presidents over five decades, ranging from FDR's meeting with Churchill to JFK's funeral. The show is organized by Miles Barth, curator of the permanent collection at the International Center of Photography, where it appears Sept. 23-Dec. 4, 1994. Additional venues are to be announced.

InSITE94

The first edition of what promises to be a biennial affair, "InSITE94" presents 74 installations at 38 different sites in San Diego, Tijuana and the surrounding area. The five-week festival kicks off Sept. 23-25 and runs through Oct. 30, 1994. Among the shows: Andy Goldsworthy at the San Diego Museum of Art; Carlos Aguirre, Anya Gallacio, Nancy Rubins and Yukinori Yanagi at the San Diego Museum of Contemporary Art; Dennis Oppenheim at the new California Center for the Arts Museum, Escondido [see box page 22]; Rimer Cardillo, Pepón Osorio, Graciela Ovejero, Susan Yamagata and Mario Lara/Barbara Sexton at the Centro Cultural de la Raza; Mark Alice Durant at the Museum of Photographic Arts; Buzz Spector at the University Art Gallery, San Diego State University; Felipe Ehrenberg, Marta Palau and Gabriela Lopez Portillo at the Centro Cultural Tijuana; Kim MacConnel at the Casa de la Cultura, Tijuana; and Allan Kaprow and Jim Skalman at Tijuana's former Agua Caliente resort.

Pictographs of Adolph Gottlieb

The first in-depth examination of Gottlieb's pictographs traces his imagery to its diverse sources in Greek vases, Cimabue, Tlingit iconography and African art as well as the art of Klee and Picasso. This exhibition includes 60 works from 1941 through 1952 and is organized by Sanford Hirsch, executive director of the Adolph and Esther Gottlieb Foundation. Itinerary: Phillips Collection, Sept. 24, 1994-Jan. 2, 1995; Brooklyn Museum, Apr. 21-Aug. 26, 1995; Arkansas Art Center, Little Rock, Nov. 30, 1995-Jan. 31, 1996; and additional venues, to be announced.

Philip Guston's Poem-Pictures

This exhibition consists of 97 rarely seen Guston drawings made in the 1970s in collaboration with writers and poets, including his wife, Musa McKim Guston, and Bill Berkson, Clark Coolidge, William Corbett, Stanley Kunitz, Ann Waldman and Philip Roth. The show is guest-curated by Debra Balken for the Addison Gallery at Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., where it premieres Sept. 24, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995. Subsequently it travels under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts, beginning in 1995; details to be announced.

Pure Beauty: Some Recent Work from Los Angeles

Inaugurating the new American Center in Paris this summer, this exhibition features work by seven Los Angeles artists—Richard Hawkins, Kelly Mason, Jorge Pardo, Sarah Seager, Thaddeus Strode, Diana Thater and Pae White. Its ironic title is taken from a 1968 work by John Baldessari in which the words "PURE BEAUTY" were painted on a canvas by a sign painter. Organized by Los Angeles Museum of Contemporary Art curator Ann Goldstein, the show premieres at the American Center in Paris, June 8-Aug. 15, 1994, and appears at L.A. MOCA, Sept. 25, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995.

Cy Twombly: A Retrospective

Twombly's painting combines elements of gestural abstraction, drawing and writing with references to poetry and Mediterranean history. Organized by Kirk Varnedoe, chief curator of painting and sculpture at the Museum of Modern Art, this survey includes about 90 paintings and works on paper. The exhibition premieres at MOMA, Sept. 25, 1994-Jan. 10, 1995. Subsequent itinerary: Menil Collection, Houston, Feb. 10-Mar. 19, 1995; L.A. MOCA, Apr. 9-June 25, 1995; National Gallery, Berlin, Sept. 1-Nov. 19, 1995.

Japanese Design: A Survey since 1950

Contemporary Japanese taste is thoroughly articulated via the approximately 300 objects in this show, which range from the world's first all-transistor TV set to clothing by Issey Miyake. Also including furniture, crafts, posters, housewares and packaging, the exhibition highlights five design concepts: compactness, asymmetry, craftsmanship, simplicity and humor. The survey is organized by Kathryn Hiesinger and Felice Fischer, with an installation design by architect Kisho Kurokawa, and appears at the Philadelphia Museum, Sept. 25-Nov. 30, 1994. Tour dates and itinerary are to be announced.

Origins of Impressionism

Working in Paris in the 1860s, Manet and Monet were inspired to forge a modern painting style after absorbing the works of Courbet, Ingres and Delacroix. This exhibition features approximately 150 works from history painting to still life and, culminating in the landmark paintings produced by Renoir and Monet at La Grenouillère during the summer of 1869. Jointly organized by Metropolitan Museum curator of European paintings Gary Tinterow and Henri Lyrette, curator at the Reúnion des Musées Nationaux, the show premieres at the Grand Palais, Paris, Apr. 19-Aug. 6, 1994, and then appears at the Metropolitan, Sept. 27, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995.

Mario Cavaglieri: The Glittering Years, 1912-1922

An exhibition of 35 paintings created from 1912 to 1922 by the Italian Jewish artist Mario Cavaglieri (1887-1969), who specialized in paintings of luxurious interiors filled with costly furnishings, objects of art and elegantly costumed women. Cavaglieri pictures the opulent but doomed world of Italy's privileged class on the eve of World War I. The show is organized by the Galleria dello Scudo, Verona, and guest-curated by art historian Emily Braun; it appears at the Jewish Museum, Oct. 2, 1994-Jan. 29. 1995.

Robert Frank: Moving Out, 1944-1994

This overview of photographs by Frank, whose book The Americans (1959) provided the first modern portrait of the nation after World War II, includes about 150 works from the National Gallery of Art. It is organized by Sarah Greenough, curator of photographs at the National Gallery, and Philip Brookman, curator of photography and media arts at the Corcoran. Itinerary: National Gallery, Oct. 2-Dec. 31, 1994; Yokohama Museum of Art, Yokohama, Japan, Feb. 11-Apr. 9, 1995; Kunsthaus Zurich, June 26-July 30, 1995; Stedelijk Museum, Amsterdam, Sept. 9-Oct. 29, 1995; Whitney Museum, Nov. 15, 1995-Feb. 11, 1996.

The Photographs of Edouard Baldus

The first major exhibition of photographs by Baldus (1813-1889) features 85 works, including examples from his four-year survey of French monuments (1851-54), his tenure as official photographer of Napoleon III's New Louvre (1855-57) and his commissioned albums of railroad construction. Co-organized by Metropolitan Museum photo curator Maria Morris Hambourg and assistant curator Malcolm Daniel, the show was jointly organized by the Metropolitan Museum, the Réunion des Musées Nationaux and the Canadian Centre for Architecture, Montreal. It premieres at the Metropolitan, Oct. 4-Dec. 31, 1994, and subsequently appears at the Canadian Centre, Jan. 24-Apr. 23, 1995, and the Musée National des Monuments Français, Paris, May 20-Aug. 21,1995.

Life in a Boundless Land: The Gaucho Scenes of Juan Manuel Blanes

Acclaimed as South America's most important 19th-century painter, Juan Manuel Blanes (1830-1901) chronicled the life of the gaucho on the grasslands of the Rio de la Plata region of Argentina and Uruguay. This retrospective of the self-taught artist, who spent two years in Florence in the 1860s, is curated by Uruguayan art historian and critic Alicia Haber and organized by the Americas Society, New York. After premiering at the Americas Society Art Gallery, Oct. 5-Dec. 31, 1994, the show appears at the Miami Center for the Fine Arts, Jan. 7-Mar. 12, 1995, and the Tucson Museum, Aug. 18-Oct. 8, 1995.

Mapping

Cartography as a combination of science, poetics and politics is the theme of this exhibition, featuring 39 works made since 1950. Among the artists included are Gregg Colson, Oyvind Fahlstrom, Nancy Graves, Kim Jones and Jasper Johns. The show is organized by painting and sculpture curator Robert Storr and appears at the Museum of Modern Art, Oct. 6-Dec. 20, 1994.

American Politicians

The role of photography in American politics is the subject of this survey of approximately 150 works, illustrating modes that range from the formal studio portrait, such as Matthew Brady's magisterial image of Abraham Lincoln, to the more recently developed "photo-opportunity," a pseudo-event concocted to make a political impression. The show features journalistic and magazine photographers as well as artist-photographers such as Elliott Erwitt, Judith Joy Ross and Garry Winogrand. It is organized by Museum of Modern Art curator Susan Kismaric and appears there, Oct. 6, 1994-Jan. 3, 1995. A national tour is planned.

The Italian Metamorphosis, 1943-1968

Guggenheim curator Germano Celant organized this first comprehensive U.S. survey of Italian art dating from the end of World War II until the social upheavals of 1968. The exhibition features painting and sculpture by Accardi, Calzolari, Burri, Fontana, Kounellis, Manzoni, Pistoletto and Zorio, among others, plus extensive selections of fashion, jewelry, architecture, design, photography, literature and cinema. Architect Gae Aulenti is designing the installation for the Guggenheim Museum, Oct. 7, 1994-Jan. 22, 1995. Plans for a European tour are to be confirmed.

The Sculpture of Saint Clair Cemin 1984-1993

The work of Brazilian-born New York sculptor Cemin is characterized by whimsical fusions of disparate forms and materials. A comprehensive survey of 59 sculptures was organized by MARCO, Monterrey, Mexico, and appeared there Jan. 28-May 9. A selection of 14 works from the show comes to the Miami Center for the Fine Arts, Oct. 8-Dec. 31, 1994.

A Passion for Antiquities

This collection of approximately 200 works of Greek and Roman art was assembled by Barbara and Lawrence Fleischman (director of New York's Kennedy Galleries, which specializes in American art). Their holdings include the head of a large Cycladic idol from 2500 B.C., a fourth-century Macedonian grave stele depicting the god Dionysus and a South Italian vase with lyrical scenes from the garden of Hesperides. The show premieres at the J. Paul Getty Museum, Malibu, Oct. 13, 1994-Jan. 15, 1995, and subsequently appears at the Cleveland Museum, Feb. 15-Apr. 9, 1995.

French Oil Sketches and the Academic Tradition

A selection of 127 oil sketches ranging in date from 1600 to 1900 will document the artistic freedom and spontaneity that was deemed inappropriate for finished academic paintings. Works by Boucher, Gérôme, Leprince, Meissonier, Vouet and others were selected by guest-curators J. Patrice Marandel of the L.A. County Museum and Peter Walch, director of the University Art Museum, the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque. The exhibition is organized and circulated by the American Federation of Arts. Itinerary: Mint Museum, Charlotte, N.C., Oct. 14-Dec. 11, 1994; Society of the Four Arts, Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 6-Feb. 5, 1995; Arkansas Art Center, Little Rock, Mar. 2-June 4, 1995; Carlos Museum, Emory University, Atlanta, Sept. 22-Nov. 19, 1995.

The Essential Gesture

This exhibition explores the use of partial or fragmentary human figures in 20th-century art, with examples ranging from Rodin to Kiki Smith. Other artists include Lachaise, Giacometti, Picasso, de Kooning, Benglis, Nauman and Shapiro. The show is organized by curator Bruce Guenther for the Newport Harbor Art Museum, Newport Beach, Calif., Oct. 15-Dec. 31, 1994.

Drawing Rooms: Jonathan Borofsky, Sol LeWitt, Richard Serra

Focusing on the work of three artists who use drawing to evoke qualities normally associated with sculpture, this exhibition presents room-sized installations specifically created for their sites. The show is organized by Michael Auping, chief curator at the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth, where it appears Oct. 16-Dec. 31, 1994.

Revivals! Diverse Traditions: 1920-1945

The second exhibition in the American Craft Museum's centenary project, designed to chronicle the history of 20th-century American craft, looks at attempts between the wars to revive or preserve folk traditions threatened by industrialization and cultural homogenization. Crafts by Native American, African-American, Hispanic and Appalachian artists are represented, as is the popular Colonial Revival style. Members of the curatorial team are William Wroth, Annie Santiago de Curet, John Michael Vlach, Dale Rosengarten, Winifred Owens-Hart and Jane Kessler. The show appears at the American Craft Museum, New York, Oct. 20, 1994-Feb. 26, 1995.

R.B. Kitaj: A Retrospective

Among the subjects of Kitaj's paintings are his years as a merchant seaman, the history of film, his Jewish heritage and themes from Kafka, Eliot, Pound and Joyce. This show presents approximately 100 works by the Cleveland-born artist who moved to England in 1957 and helped launch the British Pop-art movement. The exhibition is organized by Ruth Rattenbury for the Tate Gallery, London, where it premieres June 16-Sept. 4, 1994. It opens in the U.S. at the L.A. County Museum of Art, Oct. 23, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995, and appears at the Metropolitan Museum, Feb. 15-May 14, 1995.

A Century of Artists Books

Beginning with Toulouse-Lautrec's Yvette Guilbert (1894) and Gauguin's manuscript for Noa-Noa (1894) and including books by Chagall, Matisse and Picasso as well as by Clemente, Kiefer and Kruger, this exhibition of some 140 titles traces the use of the book form by artists. The show is organized by Riva Castleman, chief curator of prints and illustrated books at the Museum of Modern Art, where it appears Oct. 23, 1994-Jan. 24, 1995.

The International Style: Courtly Art Around the Year 1400

Nineteen illuminated manuscripts and panel paintings from England, France, Germany, Italy and Bohemia illustrate the flowering of a new courtly art in the late Middle Ages. The exhibition, organized by Diane Booton, appears at the J. Paul Getty Museum, Malibu, Oct. 25, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995.

Karl Friedrich Schinkel, 1781-1841: The Drama of Architecture

Approximately 100 drawings by the Prussian Neo-Classical architect Karl Schinkel (1781-1841) are featured in this exhibition, which examines his work in the context of theater and the performing arts. The show is co-organized by John Zukowsky, architecture curator at the Art Institute of Chicago; Kurt Forster, founding director of the Getty Center for the History of Art and the Humanities; and Gottfried Riemann, curator of the Schinkel drawings at the Altes Museum in Berlin. Architect Stanley Tigerman designed the installation, which appears at the Art Institute of Chicago, Oct. 29, 1994-Jan. 2, 1995.

Electronic Super Highway: Nam June Paik in the '90s

Curated by Paik himself, this exhibition traces the work of the leading video artist from his Fluxus beginnings to the present. The show features over 35 works, including a new 10-by-10-foot video billboard. It is organized by the Fort Lauderdale Museum of Art and DB&A Exhibition Management, Inc., founded by former Cincinnati Contemporary Arts Center director Dennis Barrie. Itinerary: Fort Lauderdale Museum, Nov. 1, 1994-Jan. 15, 1995; Indianapolis Museum, Feb. 18-Apr. 16, 1995; Columbus [Ohio] Museum, July 30-Oct. 1, 1995; Pennsylvania Academy, Nov. 1, 1995-Jan. 15, 1996; San Jose Museum, Feb. 10-Apr. 27, 1996; San Diego Museum of Contemporary Art, June 1-Sept. 8, 1996; and other venues, to be announced.

For the Love of Form: Photography of Harry Callahan

This exhibition of approximately 100 photographs surveys Callahan's work, from his landscape studies in the early 1940s to his portraits of his wife and the color photos he made in the last decade. Organized by Diana Gaston, associate curator for the Museum of Photographic Arts, San Diego, the show appears there Nov. 2, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995.

Two X Immortal: Elvis and Marilyn

The first museum show to bring together art dealing with the legends of Elvis Presley and Marilyn Monroe features approximately 100 works made since 1955 by 75 artists, including Joseph Cornell, Peter Halley, Keith Haring and Andy Warhol. University of Memphis professor Wendy McDaris curated the exhibition, which was organized by DB&A Exhibition Management in conjunction with the Boston Institute of Contemporary Art. Itinerary: Boston ICA, Nov. 2, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995; Dallas Museum, Feb. 1-Apr. 30, 1995; Mint Museum, Charlotte, N.C., Apr. 15-June 30, 1995; Cleveland Museum, Aug. 2-Sept. 23, 1995; New-York Historical Society, Oct. 15, 1995-Jan. 8, 1996; and six other venues in 1996-97.

Rem Koolhaas and the Place of Public Architecture

Five architectural projects and three urban designs are presented in this exhibition of work by the Rotterdam architect who published Delirious New York, an homage to the "culture of congestion," in 1978. Organized by Terence Riley, curator of architecture and design at the Museum of Modern Art, the show appears at MOMA, Nov. 3, 1994-Feb. 21, 1995, and at the Wexner Center, Columbus, May 6-Aug. 13, 1995.

Neo-Dada: Redefining Art, 1958-62

Aspects of Pop art, Nouveau Réalisme and Fluxus are the focus of this selection of some 65 works dating from 1958 to 1962, when the term Neo-Dada frequently appeared in American and European art journals. Artists include Arman, George Brecht, Allan Kaprow, Ed Kienholz, Claes Oldenburg, Robert Rauschenberg, Niki de Saint Phalle, Daniel Spoerri and Ben Vautier. The show is organized by critic and curator Susan Hapgood for the American Federation of Arts. The show also features Duchamp's Box in a Valise along with a survey of multiples by Arakawa, Beuys, Broodthaers, Filliou, Nauman, Polke and others. It is organized by Walker Art Center curator Elizabeth Armstrong and appears there Nov. 6, 1994-Feb. 26, 1995.

Black Male: Representations of Masculinity in Contemporary American Art

Stereotypes of African-American masculinity are challenged by the more than 100 works in this exhibition. Among the 25 artists in the show are Jean-Michel Basquiat, Tony Cokes, Robert Gober, David Hammons, Lyle Ashton Harris, Adrian Piper, Alison Saar, Gary Simmons and Fred Wilson. It is organized by Thelma Golden, associate curator at the Whitney Museum, where it appears Nov. 10, 1994-Mar. 5, 1995. Itinerary and dates of a possible tour are to be announced.

Andres Serrano: 1983-1994

Approximately 60 images of body fluids, morgue residents, the homeless and other subjects make up this show of work by the artist whose Piss Christ touched off a storm of controversy over government arts funding. Curated by Philadelphia Institute of Contemporary Art director Patrick Murphy, the show debuts at the ICA, Nov. 11, 1994-Jan. 15, 1995. Subsequent itinerary: New Museum, Feb. 4-Apr. 8, 1995; Miami Center for the Fine Arts, May 5-July 30, 1995; Chicago MCA, spring 1995 (exact dates to be announced). One additional venue may be added.

Directions—Gary Simmons

The first solo museum exhibition for the New York-based African-American artist will include his 1993 series "Erasures," in which 10 blackboard-like panels show half-erased chalk drawings of race-specific cartoon characters such as Heckle and Jeckle. Organized by assistant curator Amada Cruz, the show appears at the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, Nov. 17, 1994-Feb. 12, 1995.

Painting and Illumination in Early Renaissance Florence 1300-1450

More than 100 panel paintings and manuscript illuminations by 14 Florentine masters make up this exhibition, which includes paintings by Fra Angelico from six American museums, four panels and two manuscripts by the Master of the Codex of Saint George, and more than 30 paintings, drawings and illuminations by Lorenzo Monaco in the first in-depth examination of his work. Organized by Laurence B. Kanter, curator of the Robert Lehman Collection, and Barbara Drake Boehm, associate curator of medieval art, the show appears at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Nov. 18, 1994-Feb. 26, 1995.

American Indian Parfleche: A Tradition of Abstract Painting

More than 40 tribal groups are represented in this comprehensive overview of the American Indian tradition of abstract painting on parfleches, containers made of folded or sewn rawhide. Featuring almost 90 works created during the 18th and 19th centuries, the show is guest-curated by Drake University professor Gaylord Torrence for the Des Moines Art Center, where it debuted May 28-Aug. 7. The exhibition subsequently appears at the Miami Center for the Fine Arts, Nov. 19, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995, and one other venue, to be announced.

Dieter Appelt

The first U.S. survey of work by this German photo artist will range from his mystical, theatrical works of the 1970s to his recent abstract studies of natural forms and found objects. The show presents approximately 80 works, some incorporating sculptural objects. The show is organized by Sylvia Wolf, curator of photography at the Art Institute of Chicago, where it appears Nov. 19, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995.

In a Different Light

Bay Area artist Nayland Blake and Berkeley curator Lawrence Rinder organized this exhibition about the dynamic relationship between gay culture and the mainstream. The show includes approximately 20 groupings of art works, in some cases mixed with items of popular culture and other ephemera. Among the artists in the exhibition are Ross Bleckner, Marcel Duchamp, Gilbert and George, Robert Gober, Barbara Kruger, Zoe Leonard, Peter Nagy, Richard Serra and Jack Smith. It appears at the University Art Museum, Berkeley, Nov. 20, 1994-Apr. 2, 1995.

Precisionism in America 1915-1941: Reordering Reality

Over 140 paintings, drawings, prints and photographs by Demuth, Driggs, O'Keeffe, Strand and other artists make up this comprehensive survey of the Precisionist movement. The show is organized by Gail Stavitsky, curator of the Montclair (N.J.) Art Museum, where it premieres Nov. 20, 1994-Jan. 22, 1995. Subsequent itinerary: Norton Gallery, Palm Beach, Feb. 11-Apr. 2, 1995; Columbus Museum, May 7-July 4, 1995; Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery, Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 5-Nov. 5, 1995.

Thomas Eakins

In recognition of the sesquicentennial of the artist's birth in 1844, this exhibition will survey Eakins's career through about 35 paintings, watercolors, drawings and photographs in the Metropolitan Museum collection. The show is organized by H. Barbara Weinberg, curator of American paintings and sculpture at the Metropolitan, where it appears Nov. 29, 1994-Feb. 26, 1995.

Greek Gold: Jewelry of the Classical World

Approximately 200 gold artifacts from the 5th and 4th centuries B.C. were assembled from the collections of the British Museum, the Hermitage and the Metropolitan for this exhibition. Organized by Dyfri Williams, keeper of the department of Greek and Roman antiquities at the British Museum, the show premieres there June 21-Oct. 24. It appears at the Met, Dec. 2, 1994-Mar. 24, 1995, and the Hermitage Museum, St. Petersburg, in May 1995 (exact dates to be announced).

After Art: Rethinking 150 Years of Photography

Nearly 180 works comprise this show that reexamines the history of photography in a nonlinear fashion. Chris Bruce, senior curator at the Henry Art Gallery, Seattle, selected the images from the collection of R. Joseph and Elaine R. Monsen. The exhibition includes photographs by Ansel Adams, John Baldessari, Julia Margaret Cameron, William Fox Talbot, Anselm Kiefer, Andre Kertesz, Cindy Sherman, Alfred Stieglitz, Andy Warhol and more than 100 other artists. It appears at the Henry Art Gallery, Dec. 4, 1994-Mar. 5, 1995, and the Friends of Photography, San Francisco, May 17-July 9, 1995. Other venues are to be announced.

Orientalism

Western fashion's assimilation of Eastern dress is the focus of this exhibition, drawn almost entirely from the collection of the Metropolitan Museum Costume Institute. It is curated by Richard Martin and Harold Koda and appears at the Met, Dec. 8, 1994-Mar. 19, 1995.

Man Ray's Man Rays

Organized from the collection of the artist's family by Norton Gallery curator David Setford, this exhibition includes approximately 150 paintings, photographs, drawings, prints and constructions dating from the 1920s through the '40s. The show appears at the Norton Gallery of Art, West Palm Beach, Dec. 10, 1994-Feb. 5, 1995.

Inside the Large Small House: The Residential Design Legacy of William W. Wurster

Architect William W. Wurster (1895-1973), who designed over 200 houses in Northern California from the late 1920s through the early '40s, sought privacy, informality and a harmonious relationship with nature in his designs. He was chairman of the architecture department of the University of California at Berkeley (1950-59) and first dean of the university's College of Environmental Design (1959-63). Curator James Steward organized the show for the University Art Museum, Berkeley, where it appears Dec. 17, 1994-Feb. 26, 1995.

Recent photo-text installations of images from nature are the focus of this sampling of two decades of work by the German conceptual photographer. The show is organized by Vancouver Art Gallery senior curator Gary Dufour and premieres in Vancouver, Sept. 16-Nov. 28, 1994. It opens in the U.S. at the Newport Harbor Art Museum, Jan. 13-Mar. 19, 1995, and appears at the Neuberger Museum, Purchase, N.Y., Sept. 8, 1995-Jan. 25, 1996; the Winnepeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Dec. 1, 1996-Feb. 23, 1997; and possible additional venues, to be announced.

George Hayter and Victorian History Paintings

As "Principal Painter in Ordinary" to Queen Victoria, British artist George Hayter (1792-1871) was required to provide official portraits and historical scenes. Two large paintings of events from the English Reformation are featured in this exhibition, with a selection of more than 40 drawings, architectural, portrait and costume studies for them. The show is organized by assistant registrar Anne Gunn and appears at the Princeton University Art Museum, Jan. 14-Feb. 26, 1995.

Vasily Kandinsky: Apocalyptic Compositions

Between 1909 and 1913 Kandinsky created a suite of seven large paintings (of which four survive) that mark the artist's transition from the figurative to the abstract and represent a synthesis of his philosophical, spiritual and pictorial concerns. Approximately 70 works from the period are featured in the show, which is organized by Magdalena Dabrowski, senior drawings curator at the Museum of Modern Art, where it appears Jan. 26-Apr. 25, 1995. An international tour is planned.

The Glory of Venice: Art in the 18th Century

The first major international exhibition in America to present a comprehensive view of 18th-century Venice ranges from Sebastiano Ricci and Luca Carlevaris through Francesco Guardi and Giovanni Domenico Tiepolo. More than 200 works, including altarpieces and religious subjects, landscapes and views, historical scenes and allegories, architectural fantasies and schemes for decoration were selected by National Gallery senior curator Andrew Robison. After opening at the Royal Academy of Arts in London, Sept. 15-Dec. 14, 1994, the show appears at the National Gallery, Jan. 29-Apr. 23, 1995.

Rachel Whiteread: Works

The first solo exhibition in the U.S. for the winner of the 1993 Turner Prize presents 10 large sculptures made since 1989. Included in the show is Ghost (1990), a room-sized white plaster box cast in sections from the living room of a London home. The show is co-organized by the Basel Kunsthalle and the Philadelphia Institute of Contemporary Art; in the U.S. the show premieres in Philadelphia, Feb. 9-Apr. 16, 1995, and subsequently appears at the Boston Institute of Contemporary Art, May 7-July 8, 1995.

Ross Bleckner

Approximately 75 lyrical abstractions by the New York painter are the subject of this one-man show at the Guggenheim Museum, which emphasizes his recent work. Organized by collections curator Lisa Dennison, the exhibition appears at the Guggenheim, Feb. 10-Apr. 30, 1995. A European tour is planned.

Felix Gonzalez-Torres

This large-scale survey of work by the Cuban-born New York artist and member of Group Material follows a separate show that appeared last year at the L.A. MOCA, the Hirshhorn and the Renaissance Society, Chicago. It features approximately 45 works, including stack pieces, candy accumulations, light bulb arrangements and photographs of the artist's public projects and outdoor billboards. Organized by associate curator Nancy Spector in collaboration with the artist, the show appears at the Guggenheim Museum, Feb. 15-May 17, 1995. Dates and itinerary of a European tour are to be announced.

The Painted Page: Italian Renaissance Book Illumination 1450-1550

The Italian Renaissance elite displayed its erudition, taste, wealth and power through illuminated manuscripts that, unlike more public art forms, have come down to us in almost pristine condition. Approximately 120 examples from 29 collections in the U.S. and Europe were assembled for this show, guest-curated by NYU professor Jonathan J.G. Alexander. After debuting at the Royal Academy, London, Oct. 27, 1994-Jan. 22, 1995, the exhibition makes its sole U.S. appearance at the Pierpont Morgan Library, Feb. 15-May 7, 1995.

Division of Labor: "Women's Work" in Contemporary Art

This exhibition presents work by almost 30 artists in an examination of gender-specific art-making from 1970 to the present. Participants include Marisa Hernandez, Charles Ledray, Faith Ringgold, Miriam Schapiro, Rosemarie Trockel, Faith Wilding and Lynne Yamamoto. Contemporary art curator Lydia Yee organized the show for the Bronx Museum of the Arts, where it appears Feb. 17-June 11, 1995.

Edmonia Lewis

Edmonia Lewis (ca. 1844-1911), the first African-American professional sculptor, spent most of her adult career in Rome, producing genre, history and portrait works that reflect her African-American and Native American heritage (she was the daughter of a free African-American father and a Chippewa mother). Consisting of Lewis's bust Henry Wadsworth Longfellow (1871) and a range of prints, photographs and other historical material indicating attitudes towards blacks during Reconstruction and Indians in the era of "Manifest Destiny," the exhibition is organized by Timothy Anglin Burgard, associate curator of American Art at the Fogg Art Museum, Harvard University. It appears at the Fogg, Feb. 18-Apr. 30, 1995.

Gustave Caillebotte: The Urban Impressionist

The first major retrospective of Gustave Caillebotte (1848-1894), the French Impressionist painter whose collection of work by his fellow artists eventually was housed in the Luxembourg Museum in Paris, commemorates the 100th anniversary of his death. Approximately 125 works are in the exhibition, which is jointly organized by Douglas Druick and Gloria Groom, curators at the Art Institute of Chicago, and Anne Distel, curator of paintings at the Musée d'Orsay, Paris. Itinerary: Grand Palais, Paris, Sept. 13, 1994-Jan. 9, 1995; Art Institute, Feb. 18-May 28, 1995.

March

Latin American Women Artists, 1915-1995

This survey of art by Latin American women presents approximately 120 works by 40 artists. Organized by Milwaukee Art Museum curator Geraldine P. Biller, the show includes works by Amelia Peláez (Cuba), Rosa Acle (Uruguay), Frida Kahlo and Leonora Carrington (Mexico), Alicia Penalba and Raquel Forner (Argentina), Jac Leirner and Lygia Clark (Brazil) and others. It premieres at the Milwaukee Art Museum, Mar. 3-May 28, 1995, and travels to the Phoenix Art Museum, June 30-Oct. 1, 1995, and the National Museum of Women in the Arts (dates to be announced). Additional venues may be scheduled.

Abstract Photographs and Drawings

This exhibition of some 75 works, drawn primarily from the Baltimore Museum of Art collection, will trace abstraction in photography from the Photo-Secessionists through the postmodernists. A small selection of drawings complements the photos. The works range from George Seeley's abstract Landscape (1909) to recent photographs by Adam Fuss and James Welling, with examples from Imogen Cunningham, Florence Henri, Tina Modotti, Man Ray, Alexander Rodchenko, Aaron Siskind, Paul Strand, Ralph Steiner and Edward Weston, among others. The show is organized by Jan Howard, associate curator of prints, drawings and photographs at the Baltimore Museum, where it appears Mar. 22-June 25, 1995.

Inscrutable Objects: Image and Icon in Recent Photography

This exhibition surveys recent work by photographic artists whose subject matter is iconic, mysterious and fundamentally concerned with the elusive identity of objects. Organized by Andy Grundberg, chief curator of the Ansel Adams Center for Photography, San Francisco, the show includes work by Jo Ann Callis, Jeanne Dunning, Anne Mandelbaum, Suzanne Opton, Kenneth Shorr, Elliott Schwartz and Janice Tannin, and a videotape by Peter Fischli and David Weiss. It appears at the Ansel Adams Center, Mar. 22-May 7, 1995.

Too Jewish: Reclaiming Jewish Identity

Organized by Jewish Museum curator of collections Norman L. Kleeblatt with critic Maurice Berger serving as consultant, this exhibition focuses on contemporary artists who use provocative Jewish subject matter to assert their cultural heritage. The show includes painting, sculpture and photography along with installation, video and performance art. Among the participating artists are Deborah Kass, Cary Leibowitz, Art Spiegelman and Hannah Wilke. The show appears at the Jewish Museum, Mar. 26-July 30, 1995.

April

The Art of John Biggers: View from the Upper Room

The Southern black experience is examined through the paintings, prints, drawings and murals of Houston artist John Biggers. Approximately 126 works are included in the show, which is organized by Alvia Wardlaw, assistant professor of art history at Texas Southern University, Houston, and Alison de Lima Greene, curator of 20th-century art at the Houston Museum of Fine Arts. After premiering at the Houston MFA, Apr. 2-Sept. 3, 1995, the show travels to the North Carolina Museum, Oct. 15, 1995-Jan. 13, 1996, and the Wadsworth Atheneum, Hartford, Conn., May 19-Sept. 9, 1996. It will also appear at the Hampton University Museum of Art, Hampton, Va., and the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston (dates are to be announced).

Nadar

The first comprehensive examination of the work of the photographer Gaspard-Félix Tournachon, known as Nadar (1820-1910) presents over 100 prints, the majority portraits of Second Empire luminaries such as Baudelaire, Berlioz and Delacroix. The show also focuses on Nadar's early collaboration with his brother, Adrien Tournachon (which culminated in a fratricidal legal suit), and on his later images of model helicopters, medical specimens and the sewers and catacombs of Paris. The show is co-organized by Metropolitan Museum photography curator Maria Morris Hambourg, Musée d'Orsay chief curator Françoise Heilbrun and the late Philippe Néagu, curator at the Musée d'Orsay. The show opened at the Musée d'Orsay, June 7-Sept. 11, and appears at the Metropolitan, Apr. 3-July 9, 1995.

Leon Golub and Nancy Spero: War and Memory

These two artists, who have been married for over 40 years, both work in a figurative, expressionistic mode, often outside the mainstream, exploring themes of power and vulnerability. The dual career retrospective is organized by Katy Kline, director of the MIT List Visual Arts Center, Cambridge, and List curator Helaine Posner. After debuting at the American Center in Paris, Sept. 29, 1994-Jan. 15, 1995, the show appears at the List, Apr. 15-June 25, 1995.

Will Mentor: Work 1984-1994

Mentor, who lives and works in Fairfield, Iowa, is known for abstract works that combine motifs such as product bar codes with references to Don Giovanni, the Civil War and spirituality. This exhibition consists of approximately 40 large paintings and sculptures, 20 smaller works and 20 works on paper, selected by Deborah Leveton, associate curator at the Des Moines Art Center, where the show appears Apr. 22-July 16, 1995.

Monkey

The depiction of monkeys and gibbons is used in the visual arts of India, Southeast Asia, China, Korea and Japan to symbolize a wide variety of human emotions and experiences. In Buddhism the monkey can be a metaphor for the quest for enlightenment, in India it can be a symbol for human sexuality and in Japanese culture it is used as a sign of "otherness." The show is mounted in conjunction with a conference on humans and animals organized by the New School for Social Research, New York. It is curated by Denise Leidy for the Asia Society, Apr. 26-July 30, 1995.

May

Posters by the Stenberg Brothers

From the mid-1920s to 1933, Vladimir and Georgii Stenberg designed Constructivist posters for the Soviet cinema that helped revolutionize modern poster design. The exhibition is organized by Christopher Mount, a curatorial assistant at the Museum of Modern Art, where the show appears May 4-Aug. 15, 1995. An international tour is planned.

Arshile Gorky: The Breakthrough Years

Arshile Gorky's work from the 1940s is the subject of this exhibition, beginning with Garden in Sochi (1941) and including virtually all the paintings from the artist's celebrated 1945 exhibition at Julien Levy Gallery in New York. Organized by Michael Auping, chief curator of the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth, the show premieres at the National Gallery, Washington, D.C., May 14-Sept. 17, 1995, and travels to the Albright-Knox Art Gallery, Buffalo, Oct. 13-Dec. 31, 1995, and ends its tour at the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth, Jan. 13-Mar. 17, 1996.

Whistler and Japan

In conjunction with the Whistler retrospective at the National Gallery, this exhibition features Whistler's "Japanese pictures" as well as Japanese prints, paintings and decorative art from the collection of the Smithsonian's Freer Gallery, where the show appears May 14, 1995-Jan. 2, 1996.

Transparencies

This group exhibition presents a younger generation of international architects, all of whom explore and reinterpret the formal legacies of 20th-century architectural modernism: transparency, minimalism and rationalized geometry. Organized by MOMA chief curator of architecture and design Terence Riley, the show appears at the Museum of Modern Art, May 25-Aug. 22, 1995.

James McNeill Whistler

Nearly 200 paintings, watercolors, pastels and prints comprise the largest Whistler show since the artist's memorial exhibitions in Boston, London and Paris in 1904-05. The catalogue is written by Whistler scholar Margaret McDonald of the Unversity of Glasgow and art historian Richard Dorment, with contributions by Nicolai Cikovsky, Jr., curator of American and British paintings at the National Gallery, and Geneviève Lacambre, chief curator of paintings at the Musée d'Orsay. After premiering at the Tate Gallery, London, Oct. 12, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995, and appearing at the Musée d'Orsay, Paris, Feb. 6-Apr. 30, 1995, the exhibition makes its only U.S. stop at the National Gallery of Art, May 28-Aug. 20, 1995.

Piet Mondrian: 1872-1944

The first major Mondrian survey since 1971 traces the artist's evolution from his beginnings as a landscape painter through his assimilation and extension of Cubism and his development in 1920 of a syncopated vocabulary of straight lines and pure color. The curatorial team includes independent curator and art historian Angelica Zander Rudenstine; Joop Joosten, author of the forthcoming Mondrian catalogue raisonné; Harvard modern art professor Yve-Alain Bois; Hans Janssen, curator of the modern collection at the Haags Gemeentemuseum; and John Elderfield, curator-at-large, Museum of Modern Art. Itinerary: Haags Gemeentemuseum, the Hague, Dec. 17, 1994-Apr. 30, 1995; National Gallery, June 4-Sept. 4, 1995; Museum of Modern Art, Oct. 1, 1995-Jan. 23, 1996.

Chantal Akerman: From the East

The first museum installation by film director Chantal Akerman focuses on the creation of Akerman's documentary D'Est (1993), which was filmed in Germany, Poland and Russia. Curated by Walker Art Center director Kathy Halbreich and Bruce Jenkins, curator of film and video, the show opens at the Walker, June 18-Aug. 27, 1995, before traveling to the Jeu de Paume, Paris, Oct. 23-Dec. 3, 1995, and the Palais des Beaux-Arts, Brussels, Dec. 14, 1995-Jan. 10, 1996.

Edward Hopper and the American Imagination

To celebrate the publication of the Hopper catalogue raisonné, the Whitney Museum will present 70 paintings in a survey designed to explore the impact of Hopper's vision on the development of the American imagination. The show is organized by museum curators Deborah Lyons and Adam D. Weinberg and appears at the Whitney, June 22-Oct. 15, 1995. It does not travel.

July

Claude Monet: 1840-1926

This retrospective features approximately 140 paintings in the first comprehensive survey of the artist's work in a U.S. museum in more than 40 years. The show is organized by Charles F. Stuckey, curator of 20th-century art at the Art Institute of Chicago, where it appears July 14-Nov. 26, 1995, its only venue.

The Age of Rubens

The first extensive survey of Flemish Baroque painting to come to the U.S. featured 132 works, including 30 by Rubens, along with paintings by Anthony van Dyck, Jacob Jordaens, Jan Brueghel the Elder and about 40 other artists. Organized by Peter C. Sutton, curator of European paintings at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the show premiered there, Sept. 22, 1993-Jan. 2, 1994, and traveled to the Toledo Museum, Feb. 2-Apr. 24, 1994.

Mike Kelley: Catholic Tastes

The first large-scale survey of L.A. artist Mike Kelley, who takes his materials from American "trash culture," included his notorious stuffed-animal constructions as well as drawings, banners and other works. Whitney Museum curator Elizabeth Sussman organized the show in collaboration with the artist; after debuting at the Whitney, Nov. 5, 1993-Feb. 20, 1994, the exhibition travels to LACMA, June 30-Aug. 11, 1994, and the Moderna Museet, Stockholm, Nov. 5, 1994-Jan. 8, 1995.

Robert Ryman

This retrospective of the cerebral Minimalist painter featured some 80 works from 1955 to the present, installed chronologically by the artist in pristine galleries without labels or wall texts. The show was organized by Robert Storr, curator of painting and sculpture at the Museum of Modern Art, and Nicholas Serota, director of the Tate Gallery, London. After appearing at the Tate and the Reina Sofía, Madrid, the exhibition opened its U.S. tour at MOMA, Sept. 26, 1993-Jan. 4, 1994. Subsequent stops: San Francisco MOMA, Feb. 3-Apr. 17, 1994; Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, July 23-Oct. 2, 1994.

Secrecy: African Art That Conceals and Reveals

The inaugural exhibition of the Museum for African Art's new home on Broadway in SoHo included works that were "endlessly beautiful to look at" and "limitlessly thought-provoking," according to New Yorker critic Adam Gopnik. Featuring about 100 works from sub-Saharan Africa selected by senior curator Mary H. Nooter, the show debuted Feb. 13-Aug. 15, 1993. Subsequent itinerary: Bermuda National Gallery, Hamilton, Bermuda, Oct. 3-Dec. 31, 1993; Virginia MFA, Richmond, Feb. 1-Mar. 27, 1994; Walters Art Gallery, Baltimore, May 1-July 24, 1994; Des Moines Art Center, Jan. 21-Mar. 26, 1995.

Lucian Freud: Recent Work

This exhibition of some 80 paintings, drawings and etchings featured the British realist's large-scale, obsessively rendered nudes, which "look like the victims of a strange mental accident caused by some hit-and-run part of the psyche," according to Artforum critic Donald Kuspit. The show was curated by Catherine Lampert, director of the Whitechapel Art Gallery, London, and installed in New York by Metropolitan Museum curator of 20th-century art William Lieberman. Itinerary: Whitechapel Art Gallery, Sept. 10-Nov. 20, 1993; Metropolitan Museum, Dec. 16, 1993-Mar. 13, 1994; Reina Sofía, Madrid, Apr. 9-June 13, 1994.

Max Ernst: Dada and the Dawn of Surrealism

This comprehensive survey of Ernst's pioneering work during the years 1912-27 included some 230 paintings, relief sculptures, drawings, collages and prints. The show was organized by Menil Collection curators Walter Hopps and Susan Davidson. Itinerary: Museum of Modern Art, Mar. 12-May 2, 1993; Menil Collection, Houston, May 27-Aug. 29, 1993; Art Institute of Chicago, Sept. 15-Nov. 30, 1993.

Robert Irwin

The first retrospective of work by the key figure of the Light and Space movement featured 36 paintings and sculptures from 1959-71, plans for public projects from the 1980s and two new commissioned works. Co-organized by L.A. Museum of Contemporary Art director Richard Koshalek and curator Kerry Brougher, the show appeared at L.A. MOCA, June 20-Aug. 15, 1993. Subsequent itinerary: Cologne Kunstverein, Mar. 15-May 15, 1994; Musée d'Art Moderne de la Ville de Paris, June 22-Sept. 30, 1994; Reina Sofía, Madrid, Jan. 31-Apr. 17, 1995.

Roy Lichtenstein

This in-depth survey of the work of the influential Pop artist whose depictions of American cultural icons have themselves become part of mass culture was organized by Diane Waldman, deputy director and senior curator at the Guggenheim Museum. It presented 120 paintings, 23 sculptures, plus 10 working drawings and collages for murals and public sculptures. Itinerary: Guggenheim Museum, Oct. 8, 1993-Jan. 16, 1994; L.A. MOCA, Jan. 30-Apr. 3, 1994; Montreal MFA, May 26-Sept. 5, 1994. A tour to Munich, Hamburg, Brussels and Tokyo is presently being planned.

Jeff Koons

The first West Coast museum show for the bad boy of postmodernism featured about 65 works from Koons's seven series, "Early," "The New," "Equilibrium," "Luxury and Degradation," "Statuary," "Banality" and "Made in Heaven." The exhibition was organized by the late John Caldwell, curator of painting and sculpture at the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, where it premiered Dec. 10, 1992-Feb. 7, 1993, before appearing at the Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, July 10-Oct. 3, 1993.

Judith Leyster: A Dutch Master and Her World

Allegories of merrymaking and dissolution were among the specialities of the leading woman painter of Holland's Golden Age, Judith Leyster (1609-1660), whose career apparently ended after her marriage in 1636. The exhibition included 16 of the 20 known works by Leyster, as well as a cross section of paintings by her contemporaries. Jointly organized by the Frans Halsmuseum, Haarlem, and the Worcester (Mass.) Art Museum, this show premiered at the Halsmuseum, May 16-Aug. 22, 1993, and appeared at the Worcester Art Museum, Sept. 19-Dec. 5, 1993.

Rolywholyover: A Circus

Billed as "a composition for museum by John Cage," this show included approximately 200 works by Cage and 50 other artists in a rotating installation determined by chance procedures. The exhibition was the result of a three-year collaboration between Cage, who died in 1992, and Julie Lazar, curator at the Los Angeles Museum of Contemporary Art. Itinerary: L.A. MOCA, Sept. 12-Nov. 28, 1993; Menil Collection, Houston, Jan. 14-Apr. 3, 1994; Guggenheim Museum, Apr. 29-Aug. 13, 1994; Art Tower Mito, Mito, Japan, Nov. 3, 1994-Feb. 26, 1995; Philadelphia Museum, Apr. 2-June 11, 1995.

Stalin's Choice: Soviet Socialist Realism 1932-1956

Stalin's vision of socialist utopia, starring the heroic proletariat, was represented by over 100 paintings in an exhibition that raised "the prickliest questions about art, democracy and dictatorship," according to New York magazine critic Kay Larson. Curated by Alanna Heiss, Joseph Bakshtein, Kathrin Becker and Zdenka Gabalova, with artists Komar & Melamid acting as artistic advisors, the show was on view at the P.S. 1 Museum, Long Island City, Nov. 21, 1993-Feb. 27, 1994.

Joan Miró

This show celebrated the 100th anniversary of the birth of the artist whose imperative was, as he put it, to "break Picasso's guitar" and find the next step after Cubism. This full-scale retrospective included approximately 325 works, ranging from the dream paintings of the 1920s to the "Constellation" series of 1940-41 and the late mural-size canvases of the 1960s and '70s. Organized by Museum of Modern Art curator Carolyn Lanchner, the exhibition appeared at MOMA, Oct. 13, 1993-Jan. 11, 1994.

Jacopo Bassano

The Venetian painter Jacopo Bassano (ca. 1510-1592) is celebrated for "sumptuous extravaganzas of color rivaling Titian" as well as "brooding, melancholic scenes with acid colors and mannerist foreshortening that look forward to El Greco," according to Wall Street Journal critic Roger Kimball. A full version of the show, featuring 79 paintings and 35 works on paper, premiered at the Museo Civico of Bassano del Grappa, Italy, Sept. 5-Dec. 6, 1992. A selection of 50 paintings and 19 drawings appeared at the Kimbell Art Museum, Fort Worth, its only U.S. venue, Jan. 23-Apr. 25, 1993.

The Golden Age of Danish Painting

Approximately 100 works created between 1780 and 1850 were presented in this survey of early 19th-century Danish realism. Among the artists were Christoffer Wilhelm Eckersberg, Constantine Hansen, Jens Juel, Christen Købke and Johan Thomas Lundbye. The exhibition was organized by Los Angeles County Museum curator Philip Conisbee and Metropolitan Museum curator Gary Tinterow. The show premiered at LACMA, Oct. 24, 1993-Jan. 2, 1994, and appeared at the Metropolitan, Feb. 13-Apr. 24, 1994.

Latin American Artists of the 20th Century

This in-depth examination of Latin American modernism had more than 300 works by 70 artists, ranging from early modernists such as Tarsila do Amaral, Rafael Pérez Barradas, Diego Rivera and Xul Solar to contemporary artists like José Bedia, Julio Galán, Guillermo Kuitca and Ana Mendieta. The exhibition was organized by Waldo Rasmussen, director of the international program for the Museum of Modern Art. After appearing in somewhat different forms in Seville, Paris and Cologne, the show was seen at MOMA, June 2-Sept. 7, 1993.

Alternative Museum, New York

Jst Bcz Ur Paranoid Dnt Thnk Thyr Nt Aftr U (Malcolm X Pt 1) (Mar. 2-May 2) posed Malcolm X "as avenging angel, decorative sign and priest of a fragmented, mediated cult" in a series of eight light-box tableaux. Produced by the biracial "art band" X-PRZ (Doug Anderson and Mark Pierson of Boston, and Kenseth Armstead and Tony Cokes of New York), the show examined the tendency toward hysteria and paranoia that often characterizes discourse on racial difference. The show traveled to Spaces in Cleveland, Sept. 10-Oct. 22, 1993.

Art in General, New York

American Gothic (Mar. 20-May 1), organized by former Bronx Museum curator Laura J. Hoptman, took the famous Grant Wood portrait as the starting point for an examination of American identity. Generally addressing the notion of "American values," the exhibition investigated questions of cultural xenophobia, regionalism and domestic iconography. The artists included Lee Barlow, Michael Butler, Verne Dawson, Mary Dwyer, Dan Ford, Paul Ramirez-Jonas, Natalia Kalmus, Lavern Kelley, K.K. Kozik and Richard Rule.

Henry Street Settlement, New York

On the Way Home (Feb. 26-Apr. 4), organized by photographer Hope Sandrow and the Artist & Homeless Collaborative, presented art by more than 60 artists, volunteers and residents of New York City homeless shelters. The exhibition included résumés by shelter residents as well as a portfolio of hand-colored self-portrait etchings, done in a workshop conducted by printmaker Juli D'Amaro. Among the participants were John Ahearn, Ida Applebroog, Elizabeth Murray and Fred Wilson.

Randolph Street Gallery, Chicago

The Graffiti Show: A Hip Hop Phenomenon (Mar. 5-Apr. 10), a floor-to-ceiling graffiti installation, was kicked off with murals by Mario Gonzalez Jr. (Zore), Rafael Almaguer (Rafa) and Spray Brigade. At the opening, graffiti writers from all over the city were invited to add their tags to the wall. The show also provided the occasion for a panel discussion on hip hop in Chicago and performances by Chicago rappers and breakdancers, including Stony Island, Dead Poet Society, Knomadz, The Gras Is and Zebra Dawn.

RAW, Hartford, Conn.

Popular Mechanics (Jun. 10-July 16) was an environment of kinetic sculpture assembled by Roxy Paine and John Townsend. In Townsend's Waiting Room, water from the Real Art Ways plumbing was diverted to run through the tubing of a group of refigured mock-Bauhaus chairs and out into a sink. Paine's Lust, a motor driven sculpture mounted on the ceiling, alternately plunged a light bulb into a tank of crankcase oil and a laboratory beaker into a container of water.

Hallwalls, Buffalo

The Nuclear Indian Series (Mar. 6-April 23), an installation by Tom Huff, a member of the Seneca/Cayuga tribe who lives on the Onondaga Reservation outside Syracuse, mixed the artist's traditional stone carvings with a clutter of "Indian" souvenirs and kitsch products. The artist "pokes fun at the absurdity and rampant sentimentality of white culture's view of the Indian," wrote art critic Richard Huntington in the Buffalo News, "and at the same time reveals the painful reality" of the Native American experience.

Exit Art, New York

Poverty Pop, The Aesthetics of Necessity (Nov. 13-Jan. 8), organized by Exit Art co-directors Jeanette Ingberman and Papo Colo, adapted the tradition of Dada and Pop assemblage for the grungy '90s with work by 16 artists who use found objects out of economic necessity as well as esthetic choice. According to Village Voice critic Kim Levin, the result was "multivalent social images, recuperated metaphors and an occasional spindly one-liner." Among the artists were John Drury, Vincent Gargiulo, Beth Haggart, Rachel Harrison, Barry Hylton, Fred Tomaselli and Sergio Vega.

White Columns, New York

Naming of the Colors (Apr. 30-May 23), organized by White Columns director Bill Arning and free-lance writer and curator Kirby Gookin, looked at the way color abstractions can take on conceptual and political overtones. Among the works were Andres Serrano's monochrome Blood photograph, Rachel Lachowicz's color chart done in eye shadow and Rafael Sanchez's geometric abstracts made of peanut butter and jelly. Other artists included Gary Bachman, John Franklin, Gaylen Gerber, Felix Gonzalez-Torres, Liz Larner and John Miller.

Alternative Spaces

Franklin Furnace, New York

Works from the Permanent Collection (Nov. 19-Dec. 31), a selection of audio-tapes made by artist Felix Gonzalez-Torres, was part of Food for Thought, an ongoing series of artist-curated shows from Franklin Furnace's collection. The installation was minimal: a coffee table with chairs and an invitation to viewers to sign out cassette players. Gonzalez-Torres chose about 30 works, ranging from Meredith Monk's Key (1971) to a 1993 composition by Julia Heyward and including pieces by Laurie Anderson, Jackie Apple, Eric Bogosian, Lawrence Weiner and others.

Southern Exposure, San Francisco

Cherry Bomb (Apr. 30-May 29), curated by Mike Blockstein and Meg Mack, was "an explosive fusion of girlhood and pop culture" designed to examine how contemporary youth culture functions both as a commercial product and a means of social control. The show included Andrea Bowers's installation on cheerleading, documents from Johanna Poethig's tongue-in-cheek women's bowling league and 93 everyday objects converted into sex toys by Pae White, along with works by Lynn Aldrich, Liz Canning, Erika Cosby, Kathy Fenker, Zizi Raymond, Anne Walsh and Karen Williams.

Intar Gallery, New York

Diary of Images: Cirandas I (Sep. 20-Oct. 29), an installation by Brazilian-born New York artist Josely Carvalho, was part of an extended project focusing on the violence against Brazil's street children. Named after the popular children's game that is played by moving and singing in a circle, the installation featured a video memorial to eight children murdered on July 23, 1993, in front of Rio's Candelaria Church.

Centro Cultural de la Raza, San Diego

La Frontera/The Border: Art about the Mexico/United States Border Experience (Mar. 5-May 22) was a touring show co-organized with the Museum of Contemporary Art, San Diego, and curated by Patricio Chávez and Madeleine Grynzstejn. The exhibition brought together work by over 30 artists and art collectives around issues of mestizaje, the border mix of European, Mexican and Native American cultures and peoples that extends back at least 500 years. After appearing in San Diego, the show began a two-year tour to museums in Tijuana, Tacoma, Scottsdale, Purchase and San Jose.

Painted Bride, Philadelphia

Wave of the Cloth (Nov. 29. 1993-Jan. 15, 1994), organized by Bride curator A.M. Weaver in collaboration with the Fabric Workshop, Philadelphia, was a presentation of wearable art and body sculpture. The display of wardrobe pieces drew on personal fantasy as well as the crafts and cosmologies of various cultures. Among the 16 artists in the show were Luis Cruz Azaceta, Renee Weiss Chase, Kazuko, Januwa Moja, Frances Orphee and Barbara Westerfield.

Mobius, Boston

Terminal House (Dec. 1-23) was a multimedia installation by Meredith Davis at this 17-year-old artist-run space that specializes in large-scale works by individual artists as well as performance and theater presentations. A poetic meditation on female identity, Davis's piece featured a number of dollhouses, each containing evocative props, suspended in a darkened space and illuminated from within like Japanese lanterns. The installation built "on the metaphors of the cage and the house," according to New Art Examiner critic Miles Unger, "drawing connections between domesticity and captivity."

Capp Street Project, San Francisco

Utopia in the Teen Age (May 14-Jun. 26), organized by Artists and Writers Out Loud (AWOL), was a collaborative installation of images and objects made by teenagers. Resulting from workshops conducted with students at MacAteer High School in San Francisco, the show focused on historical and imagined utopias as well as on personal experiences of adolescence. AWOL includes Vicky Funari, Gwen Gordon, Joyce Harada, Kirk Lumpkin, Ann McArthur, John Muse, Heidi Jane Rahlmann, Mira Reisberg and Hallie Thorkelson.

DiverseWorks, Houston

The Illusive Object (Sept. 11-Oct. 16), organized by former San Antonio Museum curator Jim Edwards, featured work by nine Texas artists who transform and reassemble ordinary materials with an eye toward perceptual uncertainty and self-discovery. Included in the show were Lisa Ludwig's radiant tower of sugar cubes and Scott Bodenheimer's woven paper works, which reconstitute cut-up art reproductions into a new image. Other participants were Andrew Colquitt, Alejandro Diaz, Dan Havel, Mary Howe Hawkins, Franco Mondini and Lorna Willis.

GUIDE TO

Galleries Museums Artists

The Guide is a comprehensive alphabetical listing arranged by state and city of U.S. museums, galleries, university galleries, non-profit exhibition spaces, corporate consultants, private dealers and print dealers. Included are addresses, phone numbers, business hours, names of directors and a short description of the type of art shown. Institutions are categorized by the following designations: G (gallery), M (museum), U (university gallery), N (non-profit exhibition space), C (corporate consultant), D (private dealer), P (print dealer). Artists exhibited at each location are listed; artists with upcoming one-person exhibitions are grouped together at the end of the listing. An asterisk after an artist's name indicates that a catalog was produced for the artist in 1993-94 (see Catalog Index). Each institution is assigned a key number, used for cross-referencing in all indexes. Listings for businesses and institutions advertising in The Guide are in boldface.

200 Full-Color Slides of Important Contemporary Works published in ART IN AMERICA in 1993 . . . selected by the Editors

Art in America

1993 Slide Survey of Contemporary Art

Jennifer Bartlett: Eight PM, 1991-92, oil on canvas, 7 feet square. Courtesy Paula Cooper Gallery, New York.

This is the twelfth annual edition of the art world's most comprehensive slide survey of the state of contemporary art. It is all new, all-different, and like previous editions*, will prove to be an invaluable aid to slide librarians. Art in America will deliver this new collection in May, 1994. To be among the first to receive it, please order now.

Each slide is shot from the original transparency and filmed on high quality Kodak stock. Each art work is identified directly on the slide mount which also includes the artist's name, date, and the issue and page of Art in America in which the work appeared. The place and year of birth of each artist is provided on identification sheets included with each order. The result is a superbly reproduced collection, enabling slide librarians to systematically update and strengthen their coverage and review of contemporary art.

The cost is $375. Slide libraries may send purchase orders or enclose payment, whichever is more convenient. Mail the coupon today to reserve your 1993 edition.

* A limited number of the '91 and '92 surveys are also available. Please indicate your interest in one of the prior editions on the coupon below.

KREMER PIGMENTE

"It's like a candy store!"

Our customers love our colors. Some like the natural earth tones, of which we have over 60. Others like the glittering, glowing colors, and the metal powders. Some like it natural, others hi tech. Some work traditionally, others experimentally. And some are simply looking for alternatives.

Have you tried casein? Egg tempera? Fresco? Do you work in oil, acrylic, watercolor? Do you make paper, color cement? There are as many ways to do art as there are artists. That's why we supply raw materials: so everybody can do it their own way. If you have an idea – we'll help you get there.

You can trust our quality, as conservators in major museums worldwide do. Call toll free for your catalog and assistance: 1-800-995-5501

How to hang fine art.

These 3/16" square stainless steel rods are available in any length. Picture hooks slide smoothly on the rods yet lock securely in any spot. Multiple hooks can be added for picture stacking.

Begin with Lynch's modern picture rods. They make hanging an exhibit fast and easy, neat and clean. (No hardware hang ups. No wire. No hammering. No wall holes to fill.) Simply hang them from a molding and move them freely from place to place. We'll custom shape them to your order to fit existing moldings …or, supply you with modern aluminum "safety" molding, whichever you prefer.

Orders shipped within 36 hours. For prices and information, send for your personal free copy of The Lynch Hanging Rod System for Museums, Homes and Galleries.

"The limited editions of my work created by MicroPix are of the highest quality and on archival paper. Collectors and dealers throughout the United States, Europe and the Far East have responded with great enthusiasm to the richly colored editions"

Richard Vaux, represented by Jain Marunouchi Gallery, New York, NY and Professor of Art, Adelphi University

BREAKTHROUGH CONCEPT

Enables artists and galleries to increase their sales and exposure

MicroPix Corporation reproduces artists work into limited edition fine art prints in extremely small quantities. An artist can order four (4) or more prints of their work on 100% rag paper at a cost-effective price! This allows artists and galleries to order prints literally as they need them instead of taking on inventory. For example, typically customers order four (4) to ten (10) prints initially and simply reorder additional prints of that same picture when they need more. You can reorder prints months apart in various quantities. There is no obligation to reorder. MicroPix's small, flexible quantities allows you to order the proper number of prints for your individual needs when you need them.

MicroPix enables you to offer exclusive edition sizes (nothing mass-produced) that collectors prefer. The small number of prints that we can create for you greatly reduces the cost to enter the limited edition print market. Any artist now has the financial means to have their work reproduced into a collectors quality limited edition print.

MicroPix's limited edition prints contain excellent detail, contrast and color. In addition, we use one of the finest rag (100% cotton) papers available today. MicroPix's unique concept allows you to enjoy the benefit of increased sales and exposure that the popularity of limited edition prints brings.

NEW YORK STUDIO SCHOOL
OF DRAWING, PAINTING AND SCULPTURE

Fall, Spring and Summer Sessions

The New York Studio School offers Fall, Spring and Summer Sessions. The Fall 1994 Session is from October 3 thru February 3 and the Spring 1995 Session is from February 20 thru June 2.

Drawing Marathon

Fall '94 Oct 3-14; Spring '95 Feb 20-March 3; Summer '95 June 19-30

The Drawing Marathon is a highly original and unique course associated solely with the New York Studio School. This special two week, all day program gives the student an intense experience of drawing that is equivalent of a semester's drawing course in most schools. The Drawing Marathon's configuration is several workshops run by distinguished artists. All the faculty are painters and sculptors who are particularly passionate about issues in drawing. The Marathon is open to selected outside participants and applications will be accepted until one week before the first day of class. Workshops will take place in the historic landmark premises of the New York Studio School (formerly the Whitney Museum buildings) in Greenwich Village, New York.

Supported by a contribution from the Plumsock Fund in the memory of Leland Bell.

Evening and Saturday Drawing Classes

These life-drawing classes for part-time students meet once a week with an instructor. Enrollment is open.
